Thesis:

THE STATE OF CONSTITUTIONALISM IN UGANDA: 1962 – 2018

The thesis investigates why Uganda has persistently failed to adhere to the basic requirements of the doctrine of constitutionalism between 1962 and 2018. It finds that the volatile state of constitutionalism in Uganda is as a result of poor governance by different political regimes and their adoption of neo-patrimonial behaviours and practices. The thesis authenticates the validity of the claims that despite its shortcomings, neo-patrimonialism is a theory which not only continues to define and drive African politics but its application can suitably be used to explain the volatile nature of constitutionalism in post-independence Uganda and the whole of Africa

Thesis:

THE MORAVIAN CHURCH MUSIC HERITAGE IN SOUTH AFRICA: A HISTORICAL ACCOUNT AND A THEORETICAL FRAMEWORK FOR THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A MUSIC FOUNDATION BASED ON THE NORTH AMERICAN CONCEPT

This study contributes to the literature on the music of the Moravian Church with specific reference to the South African Moravian music heritage. The Moravian Church music heritage is documented through the lens of the music of Coloured composers and Coloured congregations. This research adds to the body of new knowledge through the provision of a comprehensive list of South African, Moravian composers and provides the first annotated bibliography of their works. The study uses the qualitative research method of case studies to detail the music departments of a selected number of congregations within the South African Moravian Church. The thesis concludes by providing a theoretical framework for the establishment of a Moravian Music Foundation based on the North American Moravian Music Foundation model.

Thesis:

A CRITICAL ANALYSIS OF DISASTER RISK MANAGEMENT IN LOCAL GOVERNANCE WITH REFERENCE TO SARAH BAARTMAN DISTRICT MUNICIPALITY

The study investigated the integration of disaster risk management into integrated development planning at the local level in selected municipalities in the Sarah Baartman District Municipality in the Eastern Cape. The findings of the study reveal that the integration of disaster risk management plans into integrated development plans at the local level can greatly contribute towards reducing the risks faced by communities, especially high-risk communities. The study also revealed that by carefully considering and using community assets, local government could ameliorate the financial effects of Disaster Management and empower communities as first responders.
